KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Fatal Work of an Electric Bolt at the Bunker Hill Breaker.

HUGH DONNELLY THE VICTIM

He Was Instantly Killed and Two Young Men Who Were with Him Sustained Serious Injury—They Were Sitting at the Top of the Breaker Watching the Storm—Little Damage Done to Breaker.

One person killed and two seriously injured by lightning's awful harvest at a Damore yesterday afternoon.

The unfortunate persons were Hugh Donnelly, the engineer at the Pennsylvania Coal company's Bunker Hill breaker, who was killed instantly, and his two companions, Seldon Swingle and Henry Stipp, who were injured.

The accident occurred at the head of the breaker which is open at both sides, to allow the large cars which are loaded to this point, to run through to the breaker and be dumped. It was while sitting in this enclosure that the men were struck. The breaker was not seriously damaged by the electric bolt.

The accident happened during that portion of the severe storm when hailstones as large as marbles were descending. Suddenly there was a blinding flash in the direction of the breaker, and in its zigzag course the bolt struck the uppermost part of it.

WHAT MITCHELL DISCOVERED.

John Mitchell, the foreman, rushed up the stairs to find out what damage was done. On entering the first head house he heard groans that led him to the higher to the outer building, where he found Swingle struggling on his hands and knees to rise to his feet, and directly across the building Stipp was lying, twitching his hands and arms, while almost at his side and motionless lay Donnelly, his hands in his trousers' pockets and his open knife by his side.

By Swingle's half articulated utterances he understood the situation and at once went for assistance. Swingle and Stipp were shortly restored, but Donnelly showed no signs of life and a short time afterward the ambulance bore his corpse to his home at Sport Hill, where a wife and several children are left to mourn for him.

With a little assistance the other two reached their homes. They were very shocked, but it is thought out of danger.

The breaker was idle for the day and from all appearances the three had repaired to the head of the breaker to escape the heat of the engine room and enjoy the cool breeze.

HIDING FROM THE STORM.

They were either sitting down or had stepped in from the trestle to escape the rain. The bolt struck about eight feet above their heads and shattered a large jib. The dead man had marks on his neck and his hair was slightly singed, as is Stipp's. Otherwise there was no marks to show how the deadly fluid had performed its work. Donnelly was a man about 35 years of age, and well known in Damore and a highly respected citizen. His companions were young men about 16 years of age, who were merely sitting around to pass away the time.

At last account both were doing well.

WORK OF CHILD SAVING.

Board of Associated Charities Will Bend Its Efforts in That Direction.

Last night's meeting of the Associated Charities showed that there is no decrease in the number of worthy applications for relief and work, and that there is a deplorable state of affairs in the existence of an unsavory atmosphere surrounding children in places of ill repute. Colonel E. H. Rippe presided at the meeting. Members W. T. Smith, Thomas J. Moore, E. J. Lynett, W. Gaylord Thomas and T. J. Kelly were present. It was decided to appropriate $100 to the Mayor's fund for employment purposes, the work to be done at Connell park.

The report of the treasurer showed $207 in the treasury, which with the sum presented by the Women's Auxiliary makes a total of $267.

Mrs. W. B. Duggan, agent, reported forty-two applications for relief since the previous meeting. One child was sent to the Lackawanna hospital and many men were given employment.

Several deserving women were found work in private houses.

Mrs. Duggan further reported that many children, in the central city particularly, are surrounded by bad influences.

The chair appointed members Thomas, Lynett, Moore and Rippe to the child saving committee, previously composed of Colonel H. M. Boies, E. B. Sturges and T. J. Kelly. Colonel Rippe's suggestion that the work would be facilitated by adding three ladies to the committee met with any objection, he suggested the names of Mrs. J. H. Cohen, Mrs. P. J. Horan, of Damore, and Mrs. A. E. Pettigrew.

The members of the new committee will meet Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the office of Attorney W. Gaylord Thomas to devise ways and means of pushing the work, particularly commendable to the ladies of the auxiliary will be invited to attend future meetings of the board. A suggestion from George H. McDonald, manager of Laurel Hill park, that a picnic be given at the park for the benefit of the Associated Charities was referred to the entertainment committee.

FORTY YEARS AS A DOCTOR.

Dr. Davidson Gives His Experience to County Medical Society.

The Lackawanna County Medical society held a meeting in the corner room in the court house yesterday afternoon. Dr. Davidson presided. Other members present were Drs. Burnett, Connor, Gates, Wehlan, Paine, Van Sickle, Murray, Allen, Barnes, Prindle, Ray, Dean, Davidson, and Dr. Birdsell, of Montrose.

Dr. Davidson, of Benton Center, read a paper entitled "Forty Years Practice of Medicine." Some of the statements of the author reflected rather severely upon the medical profession, but nevertheless much that he said was of an interesting nature and commanded the closest attention. The paper was a sort of review of the status of the medical profession and was not discussed.

Dr. G. D. Murray also read a carefully prepared paper on "Asthma, or Painful Vision." It was discussed by Drs. Dean, Burnett, Ray and others. Dr. Ray's remarks in reference to the treatment of patients who are sent to them were particularly sarcastic.

A proposition was made to the effect that the constitution of the association be so changed as to allow physicians from other counties to be admitted as members. A decision will be made in the matter at the next meeting. Dr. C. E. Thompson was elected to membership in the association.

The meeting was held in the afternoon so as to allow out of town physicians to attend. Dr. Prindle, who was present, is the only lady physician who is a member of the association.

NEALON LOST HIS EAR.

The Accident Occurred While He Was Shoeing a Horse.

John Nealon, of Damore, employed in the shop of Blacksmith Schnell, on Penn avenue, went to his usual job yesterday while at his work yesterday.

He was engaged in shoeing a vicious horse when the animal grabbed the ear of the blacksmith between his teeth, tearing off the member.

MOIR COURT BLOCKADED.

Property Owners Protested and Mayor Connell Has Directed That It Must Be Made Passable.

Yesterday there was a merry four-cornered fight with the Economy Steam Heat and Power company, which is laying steam pipes in the streets, Peter Mullen, the contractor doing the work, Street Commissioner Kirt, and well to do residents whose streets in Moir court have been laid off by the city in progress as the interested parties. It is a mixed up affair, but unless the passage of horses, carriages and cows to and from the stables is made possible before this afternoon, the affair will incur difficulties for some time.

The residents started the ball by making things lively for the street commissioner; he in turn made it lively for the contractor; the contractor in turn unsuccessfully tried to make it lively for the company. Mayor Connell was drawn into the fray toward evening and, like the Kilkenny horse, who hit a head wherever he saw one, he proposed to make it lively for all concerned, except the residents, unless the tangle is straightened forthwith.

The difficulty is humorous and yet serious. The residents' position in the matter is excellent. Since Monday afternoon they have been unable to get either horses or carriages from the stables, and two cows have survived on parings, etc., and been prevented from supplying the tables with thick June-grass milk. Some blamed the street commissioner for allowing such a state of affairs to exist, others blamed Contractor Mullen and the rest placed the responsibility upon the Economy company.

Work was begun about three weeks ago in extending the pipes from the plant on J. Herson avenue, between Adams and Elm streets, under a permit issued by Street Commissioner Kirt, which provided that in the alleys the trench should leave enough space for the passage of vehicles. The peculiar details of laying steam pipes with non-beat conducting material makes the work necessarily slow. No difficulties were met until Moir court was reached. Here the contractor excavated all the way from Gibson street to Pine street. The trench is about three or four days ahead of the pipe laying, which has only been completed about 125 feet from Gibson street.

Mayor Connell yesterday gave his fiat to Street Commissioner Kirt that the contractor of the company must today lay the pipes and fill the trench, or in the same manner make Moir court passable.

Now the residents are holding their breath and wondering if the tangle will unravel.

NARROW ESCAPE OF HIGGINS.

Lightning Kills Horses in a Barn He Had Just Vacated.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

HONESDALE, Pa., June 12.—During the heavy thunder storm about 4 o'clock today a son of Widow Higgins, of Elk Pond, was out plowing in a field with a team of horses. As the storm came up he put the team in the barn and went into the house. Ten minutes later the barn was struck by lightning. Both horses were killed; but another horse in the barn was unharmed. Thomas Higgins extinguished the fire which followed with a pail of water.

A few years ago this barn was struck in identically the same place and an ox was killed. The barn was uninjured.

MYSTERY IS CLEARED

Body of Richard Caffrey Found in River Near the Elm Street Bridge.

BEEN IN WATER THREE MONTHS

On the Morning of March 7 Caffrey Fell Over Retaining Wall Near Gas House Bridge Into the Water and Was Carried Down Stream Until the Body Found Lodgment Against a Water Main.

The body of Richard Caffrey, who was drowned in the Lackawanna river about 11 o'clock on the morning of March 7, was discovered yesterday afternoon in the middle of the river under the Elm street bridge.

Three painters, Andrew Baker, Peter Hartman and George Groisser, have been at work on the Elm street bridge for some time. Yesterday afternoon they observed an object in the water caught against the big main of the Scranton Gas and Water company that goes through the river at the lower end of the bridge. It resembled the bloated carcass of a dog, and that is what they supposed it to be.

When the shower started yesterday they sought shelter under the bridge, and while waiting for the rain to cease, one of them remarked that the decomposed object ought to be loosed, or else the stench would nauseate them when they began work on the under-structure.

Upon scrutinizing more closely the men were horrified to find that it was the body of a man.

The trunk of it was without any clothing and had reached that stage of decay where the flesh was the color of brown writing paper. The flesh was gone from the head leaving the ghastly white skull and the upper vertebrae of the spinal column exposed. The arms and legs were eaten away, nothing but the bones remaining. The trousers that the dead man wore were torn and the bones of the feet attached to shreds to the bones of the feet.

HOW BODY WAS IDENTIFIED.

By the trousers and a peculiarity of the teeth, Patrick Caffrey, his brother, identified the body. News of the discovery was telephoned to the police by the painters, and Captain Edwards detailed Officer Mills to keep off the crowds.

Coroner Kelly arrived at 3:30 and impounded the body. Thomas J. Flannery, Thomas H. Kelly, Officer T. E. Mills, W. J. Scott, James Malia and D. J. Moriarty. The body was viewed and the testimony of the painters taken. Mrs. Caffrey and her son Patrick were positive that it was Richard Caffrey and Thomas Dwyer also swore to that effect.

The jury adjourned to the hotel of Michael Gallagher and returned a verdict that the corpse was that of Richard Caffrey, who was drowned in the Lackawanna river on or after March 7, and that drowning was accidental.

Under the Elm street bridge was a culvert and the remains were taken from the stream and brought to Mr. Canick's establishment on Washington avenue, where they were prepared for burial. At 6 o'clock the funeral was held and the body interred in Hyde Park Catholic cemetery.

FELL OVER THE WALL.

The dead man lived with his widowed mother and brother at 294 Elm street. He had been employed at the salutes of the B-hive breaker as a car loader. March 6 was the regular monthly pay day and the Bellevue mines did not work on the following day. On the morning of May 7, Caffrey arose early and left home at 7 o'clock in the morning.

He was returning home about 11 o'clock and was walking along the Jersey Central tracks. Near the gas house there is a high retaining wall and an old man who was fishing drifted over this wall and ran into the river.

The old man thrust a pole out to Caffrey, but he did not grasp it and sank, his body not being seen thereafter until it was discovered as stated in the above facts.

BAPTIST PASTORS SPEAK.

Want the Mayor to Issue a Sunday Closing Proclamation.

The following resolutions were passed Monday by the Baptist Pastor's conference. D. C. Hughes, president, and H. H. Harris, secretary:

Whereas, The clergy and citizens of Scranton have for some time been strenuously engaged in securing a better observance of the Sunday laws in our city; and

Whereas, It was understood in the beginning of the movement that the mayor of the city would aid the movement by issuing a proclamation declaring it to be his duty and his determination, as the chief executive of the city, to secure the observance of the Sunday laws; and

Whereas, We, the clergy and citizens of the city, have been greatly disappointed in the delay of his honor, the mayor, in the issuing of such a proclamation; and

Whereas, It is a well known fact that the prominent hotels of the city and nearly all of the saloons are openly violating the Sunday laws every Sunday, therefore,

Resolved, That the Baptist ministers in conference assembled unite with the clerical conferences of other denominations in urging the mayor, the mayor, the immediate issuing of a proclamation to the citizens of Scranton, in which he will express his determination to enforce the Sunday laws of the state, and will give moral support to all efforts put forth by the citizens of Scranton to secure for this city a quiet, orderly and law-abiding day on each first day of the week.

CHANGE ON SWETLAND STREET.

Councilmen Have a Conference with Affected Property Owners.

Chairman W. A. Thomas, Captain William Kellow and Victor Lauer, of the streets and bridges committee of select council met W. L. Esch, of the Finch Manufacturing company; J. W. Howarth and Owens Brothers, property owners interested in the changing of the grade for the Swetland street approach to the Linden street bridge, at the city clerk's office last night.

Their agency is City Engineer Phillips, who was not notified of the meeting, no definite action could be decided upon to embody in a report to council. City Solicitor Torrey was present and stated that the options on property which will be encroached upon in the widening of Swetland street are binding on the part of property holders concerned for six months. The options secured are as follows:

D. M. Jones, 15x138 feet, Main avenue and Swetland street, and will remove buildings from the street line, $1,500; Earl Stuenkel, 15x138 feet, Main avenue, 12x150 feet, corner of Ninth and Swetland streets, with the buildings, $2,000; or the whole property for $3,000; Thomas Scott, 24x90; C. A. Smith estate, corner of Chestnut and Swetland streets, 48x150 feet, $3,000; P. McAnulty estate, 15x150 feet, corner of Swetland and Chestnut and Pleasant streets, $3,000.

The committee decided to have council request the city engineer to furnish an 8 and 9 percent, profile of Swetland street for use by the committee at a future conference with property holders; also, that a resolution be passed by council that all matters in reference to the Swetland street approach to the proposed bridge be referred to the joint committee for immediate action.

It was decided to report favorably on the following ordinances: For the extension and opening of Fairview court, and the purchase of land for the purpose from G. W. Brown at Robinson street; an ordinance for changing the grade of Caspase avenue between Larch and Marion street; providing for a foot flagstone walk on Academy street, South Hyde Park avenue and North Main avenue.

HIS TEMPER WAS RUFFLED.

Dr. William Haggerty Says That W. A. St. John Made Violent Threats Against Him.

Dr. William Haggerty is afraid that W. A. St. John intends to do him bodily harm.

He went before Alderman Fitzsimons yesterday afternoon and had a warrant issued against Mr. St. John, and the hearing in the case was held last evening. The facts as developed at the hearing show that Mr. St. John drove to the Driving park yesterday morning and presented as his right to enjoy the privileges of the track, a license made out in the name of Fred Cook, a racing partner of Mr. St. John's.

The paste board was marked "Not Transferable," and Dr. Haggerty on that account attempted to eject the president of the Scranton Base Ball association from the track. Mr. St. John objected to a police officer to grant the doctor his own way in the episode, and the doctor says went so far as to raise his riding whip and endeavor to bring it down with force on his head. Besides, Dr. Haggerty declares that Mr. St. John made violent threats against him.

Seven witnesses gave testimony at the hearing and Alderman Fitzsimons held the defendant in $300 bail to appear at court. Nathan Thompson qualified as security.

Mr. St. John declares that Dr. Haggerty treated him most unjustly, but his rage and also made an effort to strike him.
